

The People Have More Sense Than the Legislature

If there's one solid conclusion to be drawn from yesterday's general election in Arkansas it is this: The people have more common sense than their legislature.

It was a legislative failing that dumped all those dangerous proposals in our lap yesterday—a peril from which the people escaped only after reading thousands of words in the newspapers and editorials, listening to speeches over the radio and then going to the polls and voting "right."

The schools came before the people with a plea that they don't have enough money to cover their budget. But it is the constitutional duty of the legislature to review expense budgets and find revenue to meet costs that are necessary. That's what men are elected to the legislature for. They simply didn't do their duty—and if they don't do it next January some political heads will roll.

There are some facts about the school picture which obviously were not close actuarial examination. For instance, why should the total state school budget reach astronomical heights when the population of Arkansas has declined in the last 10 years?

Propaganda was put out by the State Department of Education before the election that unless Amendment No. 41 passed the school teachers' salaries would be cut. There's just one answer to that.

If a solitary school teacher is actually threatened with a salary cut then State Education Commissioner A. B. Bonds should be asked to resign and the whole supervisory structure of the schools cut to the bone.

Teachers' salaries are probably double what they were at the bottom of the depression. But salaries of the actual working force in any organization are never the whole story in the expense picture. A newspaper's salaries will amount to perhaps 65 or 70 per cent of the total operating cost—doubling them wouldn't actually double the total operating cost. Therefore you can't blame the school teachers' salaries for the crisis in the State Department of Education has gotten itself into.

The fact is that while the teachers' salaries have only doubled the total operating budget of many a school district has increased four times! This is strictly a matter of bad business management. It's up to the legislature to investigate—and bring the axe down hard.

We'll raise more money for the schools when the actual need is disclosed—for the teachers who do the daily work—but for others, not a dime.

And The Star gives warning now that you've only one place to look for additional tax revenue—additional assessments and millage against real and personal property.

Years ago we went out on a limb for the Hall 2 per cent state sales tax, advocating this special tax upon the merchandise that the advertisers of this newspaper offer for sale. All the thanks we ever got for what we considered an act of political and business courage was an attempt to further delay property tax reform and increase the sales tax to 3 per cent.

There will be no increase in the state sales tax. If the legislature attempts to pass such a bill it will be referred to the people on a referendum—delaying action until November 1952. And the people will beat it. You can't do business charging a 3 per cent gross sales tax in Arkansas with tax-free Texas just to the west of us.

The state can, and should, restore the state levy against property, at the full constitutional limit of 10 mills, which would raise 6 million dollars a year. Beyond that we've got to look for a vigorous and rough overhauling of the property assessment system. And this is the point at which the 1951 legislature will begin looking into that expense budget from which the schools say they are suffering.

Nevada Co. Votes for Hospital

Nevada county voted against Amendment Nos. 41 and 44, voted for Act No. 1, and went for prohibition by a majority of 10 votes on Act No. 2, in complete opposition to the 23 boxes tabulated by Nevada County Clerk Brad Dewdney.

The county hospital project carried by a heavy majority, along with its supporting taxes. Here is the complete unofficial report on Nevada county:

Democrats Keep Control; Leaders Fall

By JACK BELL
AP Political Reporter

Democrats lost their top senatorial leaders but retained control of the senate in late counts today of yesterday's election returns.

A Republican tide of votes that pushed President Truman's "fair deal" program further in the background and raised questions about his foreign policies apparently fell short also of giving the GOP control of the house.

With only one race undecided, the trend of returns indicated the senate will line up in January with 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans. This would be a net gain of five seats for the Republicans over their present membership.

The defeat of Senator Forrest Donnell of Missouri, lone Republican member to be bested, seemed likely to prevent a possible tie with 48 members from each party. In case of a tie, Vice President Barkley's vote would retain control for the Democrats.

Republicans picked up seats in Idaho, Illinois, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Utah and California but trailed in Washington in the undecided race.

Late returns from yesterday's voting gave Rep. Richard M. Nixon, Republican, a senatorial race victory over Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democrat, who was praised by President Truman for her support of his foreign policies.

That left only Washington's race between Senator Warren G. Magnuson and Republican Walter Williams yet to be decided among senate contests. Magnuson held a substantial lead with half of the state's votes counted.

The GOP needed a net gain of seven to win senate control. With 84 house races still undecided, Republicans had gained eleven seats net. The GOP needed to unseat 46 Democrats and keep their present membership for house control in the 82nd congress.

The adverse turn of the Korean war, opposition to the President's domestic program, criticism of his foreign policy decisions and reaction to Communist-in-government charges were variously credited with bringing the Republican victories.

Republicans won smashing individual victories in a sweep that knocked Senators Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, and Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania, his assistant, out of office.

Senators Millard E. Tydings of Maryland and Elbert Thomas of Utah also went down to defeat. All four senators were staunch defenders of President Truman.

Their defeats prompted Harold E. Stassen, a potential '52 Republican presidential candidate, to suggest that Secretary of State Acheson had received a "vote of no confidence" and ought to resign.

The fifth Democratic seat to go to the Republicans was that previously held in Idaho by Senator Glen Taylor, defeated in the primary by former Senator D. Worth Clark.

The voting trend bowed over veteran Democrats returned to office Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, often called "Mr. Republican," and his GOP leadership.

Dyke Springs Timber Nets City $6,739

The Hope City Council last night accepted a bid from the Ozan Lumber Co. of Prescott of $6,739.50 for timber on the Dyke Springs property 8 inches and over.

An ordinance was read for the first time setting up regulations where certain animals and fowls are kept inside the city and prohibit the use or maintenance of open toilets within 300 feet of public sewer lines.

Rules were suspended and the group passed an ordinance setting up rules and regulations on the installation of parking meters in Hope.

A request by N. P. O'Neal in regard to running a gas line from Hope Brick Works to serve 4 buildings downtown will be turned over to the Public Service Commission for advisement.

Property owners asked extension of the sewer line on south Main with the owners paying for installation. The matter was turned over to the city attorney for a ruling.

In other action the council voted to buy a water line on Beech street from E. C. Brown for $152.50; authorized the board of public affairs to buy a new police car; voted to place meters on revenue producing buildings at Fair park and voted $250 be given to the Chamber of Commerce.

Cotton Estimate Some Better Than Expected

Washington, No. 8 — (P) — The agriculture department, in its semi-final report of the year, today estimated this year's cotton crop at 9,945,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This figure is 76,000 bales more than the 9,869,000 bales forecast a month ago. It compares with 16,128,000 bales produced last year and 11,599,000 for the 1939-48 ten-year average.

This year's very small crop has created a tight supply situation and the possibility of shortages before the 1951 crop is harvested. Because of the small supply, the government has restricted exports to 2,146,000 bales for the eight-month period ending next March 31.

Officials had said that it may be possible to increase the export quota because of an indicated larger crop than was forecast a month ago.

The department said the yield of cotton to the acre averaged 259 pounds compared with 257 pounds indicated a month ago, 284 last year and 261.3 for the ten-year average.

In an accompanying report, the census bureau said 6,458,708 bales of cotton from this year's crop had been ginned prior to Nov. 1.

This compared with 9,540,320 ginned to the same date last year. Because this year's crop has turned out so small, the department has suspended all production and marketing controls for the 1951 crop.

Secretary Brannan has said farmers should produce at least 16,000,000 bales next year to assure the country of ample supplies.

A year ago the country faced a surplus of cotton. The government put rigid production controls into effect for this year's crop. It set a goal of about 11,770,000 bales. But production failed to reach the goal because some farmers did not plant their allotments and because of unfavorable weather and insect conditions.

Supplementing this year's crop is a carryover of about 6,800,000 bales from previous crops. But much of this carryover will be needed to help fill domestic needs of perhaps 10,000,000 bales and exports which, if supplies were available, might well exceed 6,000,000 bales.

The short crop has been reflected in an advance in prices averaging about 35 percent over levels of a year ago.

The indicated yield of cotton per acre and production, respectively, by states included:

Mississippi 315 and 1,340,000; Arkansas 319 and 1,105,000; Tennessee 315 and 425,000 Louisiana 276 and 430,000 Oklahoma 112 and 225,000; Texas 205 and 2,950,000.

600 Planes Hit Sino Red Forces in North Korea

Seoul, Nov. 8 — (P) — Six hundred allied warplanes blasted North Korea all along the Manchurian border today to block off Red reinforcements from Communist China.

But air observers reported "very heavy traffic" rolling across Manchuria toward the Yalu river boundary. They also spotted an estimated 700 vehicles already south of the river in North Korea.

As the U. N. air arm mounted one of the largest raids of the Korean war, reinforcements arrived on the Korean east coast. Elements of the U. S. Third Infantry division landed at the port of Wonsan.

On the ground U. N. troops pushed forward on all fronts. The unexplained Communist withdrawal continued.

Intelligence officers at General MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters clamped a surprise news blackout on developments between Communist battle lines and the Manchurian border. They said the clamped-down would be temporary.

They declined to answer questions about the Reds' ultimate intentions — whether the Communists presumably were planning an attack trying to consolidate present lines or preparing a series of delaying actions.

In an historic sidelight to the air war, jet met jet in a fight to the death for the first time. The battle occurred over Sinuiju, a key target for the 600-plane assault.

An American F-30 Shooting Star jet shot down a Russian-made MIG-15 jet fighter while the planes sped at better than 600 miles an hour. Another Red jet was damaged but escaped to Manchuria.

Pilots said the Red jets tried to lure them across the border over Manchuria — a new tactic. U. N. planes have been ordered to stay clear of Chinese Communist air.

In the big raid 80 U. S. B-29 superforts dumped 640 tons of bombs on Sinuiju, concentration point for Chinese Red supplies and site of an airfield used by Red jets in attacks on U. S. aircraft.

B-26 light bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters took part in the massive assault against cities, towns, villages, bridge and troop concentration, along the Korean side of the border almost to Soviet Siberia.

A U. S. air force spokesman said Sinuiju, a city of 100,000, was "pretty well taken care of" by 85,000 incendiary bombs.

Nine of the B-29s carried 80 demolition bombs — 1,000 pounds — which were dropped on twin bridges spanning the Yalu between Manchuria and Korea at Sinuiju.

Annexation May Double Warren's Population

Warren, Nov. 8 — (P) — The population of Warren is expected to be doubled by annexation approved in yesterday's election.

Population of the Bradley county seat was fixed at 2,599 in the 1930 census.

The area to be annexed virtually encircles the lumber town and includes three lumber mills.

The vote was 848 for annexation to 78 against.

Dewey Has No Trouble in New York

New York, Nov. 8 — (P) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey won his third term as governor of New York yesterday in a smashing election victory that re-established him as a power to be reckoned with when the Republicans choose a 1952 presidential candidate.

The route of New York state Democrats was virtually complete except for the re-election of Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, the 72-year-old veteran campaigner who rode to victory on the Democrat-Liberal ticket.

More than 5,250,000 persons voted — a record for an election in a non-presidential year. There were 6,443,512 registered and eligible to vote.

Dewey defeated Rep. Walter A. Lynch, 56-year-old Democratic-Liberal candidate, by a plurality of about 500,000 votes.

With 9,688 out of 9,708 districts in the state Dewey had 2,797,325 votes to 2,245,265 for Lynch who came out of the relative obscurity of a Bronx congressional district to make the race.

In the senatorial contest Lehman, in 9,686 districts, had 2,621,754 votes to 2,358,939 for Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley who broke down of exhaustion in the closing days of the campaign and met defeat in a hospital bed.

A feature of Dewey's triumph was his sudden unusual jump in the esteem of big city voters.

The 48-year-old governor has said he will not run for President again — after two defeats at the hands of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. He has endorsed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as his choice for GOP presidential candidate.

This year's campaign was New York's bitterest in years, but Dewey rolled well with the punches. His cool, haughty pose of 1948 was replaced by an easy-going, down-to-earth manner that paid off handsomely, making him the first Republican to win a third term as New York governor.

He carried upstate New York as he always has, although not quite as strongly as in his record year of 1946 when he piled up an overall majority of 607,151.

Taking Part in a Commando Attack Is Some Different From a Service Desk Job

By STAN SWINTON
For Hal Boyle

Wonsan, Korea — (P) — The first commando-trained American outfit to fight in Korea is operating against bypassed guerrilla Reds in this northeast sector. The men are volunteers from General MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters.

Bypassed Reds, striking at undefended villages and communication lines, are posing a serious problem. American forces had not been prepared for such fighting. U. S. army staff officers readily concede the Americans had no trained anti-guerrilla field leaders.

The first such raidier company, commanded by Maj. James H. Wear of Austin, Tex., is encamped on a lonely ridge near Munchon, 10 miles north of Wonsan.

Many men of Wear's company fought in World War II. But five months ago they were back as cooks, typists and "desk commandos." Now they have become tough and expert in ship-to-shore raids, knife-fighting and judo.

They made their initial raid with 14 British commandos at Kusan on the southwest coast before the Sept. 15 landings at Inchon. This was a ruse to mislead the Reds as to where the landings could be expected.

This crack force has one order: "Fight guerrillas."

It has no Korean interpreter. A 2 1/2-ton truck offers it mobility.

Not a man in it ever fought guerrillas before. Not an officer ever saw observer duty in Malaya, Indochina or elsewhere in Latin guerrilla tricks.

U. S. 10th corps headquarters in Wonsan ordered a raider patrol to Kowon, 20 air miles north, where 1,500 guerrillas were reported to have made a raid the day before. No one in Kowon professed knowing anything about it. Even if the report were true, the guerrillas had been gone 24 hours.

This lack of available local intelligence suggests the outfit's difficulties.

All Issues But State Stock Law Defeated; County Follows Pattern Library Tax Is Unexpected Casualty

Hempstead County citizens yesterday against prohibition, turned down school amendment 41, favored a statewide stock law, went against a four office terms and passed two hospital proposals.

A breakdown shows the vote in Hope was the deciding factor in the prohibition issue. The five Hope boxes voted against the measure 962 to 881 — the 101 vote margin in the total vote. On this unofficial count of 29 of 31 boxes the rural vote ran about even, with Blevins and Jaka Jones still to report. The difference is 150 votes.

Perhaps a casualty of the trend to vote against everything was the one mill library tax which on a basis of 25 of 31 precincts, has been ousted. Few voters realized the issue which was favored two years ago and effective since, was even on the ballot. The vote was 1159 for and 1280 against.

The 3 mill road tax was treated somewhat better in 27 of 31 precincts getting 1346 for and 816 against.

In the hospital issue most everybody liked the idea but didn't care to pay for it, give the tax to build with a scant lead.

Arch Starts Plane With Aboard

Nov. 8 — A Northwest Airlines plane, carrying 12 passengers and a crew of four, was seen today in a blizzard near the continental divide, about 60 miles from highway 100, where service officials found nothing but a road and a flashlight.

The plane was seen by a pilot of a small plane, who reported it to the highway patrol. The plane was seen at about 10,000 feet, and was flying in a southerly direction.

reporter, is staked out by police at the Martin Setzer ranch, four miles north of home, 12 miles southeast of here where the Northern Pacific railway crosses the continental divide at an altitude of 8,400 feet.

Senior headquarters were moved to the Setzer ranch yesterday after residents of that area reported hearing explosions.

The Martin 202, westbound from Chicago to Seattle, left Helena 60 miles northwest of here at 7:53 a. m. (MST) yesterday for Butte. The last radio contact was at 8:11 a. m. when Pilot Lloyd Lampman, 37, of Seattle said he was over Whitehall, about 80 miles south of Helena, starting his descent at 10,500 feet.

Between him and the mile-high local airport — where the ceiling was about 2,500 feet, the visibility was less than five miles — lay the main range of the continental divide.

For the next hour and a half, every civil aeronautics administration communications station in the northwest tried to contact the twin-engine plane, which carried 18 passengers and a crew of four. Meanwhile, state aeronautics Commissioner Frank Wiley, of Helwere counted until after the hot county races had been determined. Counties concentrated on the four initiatives and let tabulating of the races for governor and treasurer lag.

The first county to report complete was Ashley.

The total of 174,843 votes reported in returns from 1,247 precincts indicates a new Arkansas general election vote record surpassing the previous record total of 249,300. That was the vote for governor in the 1948 balloting.

The vote reported is about two thirds of the 1948 total.

The unreported vote includes many small boxes, but also out are some of the bigger boxes in the populous counties. The count in them was slowed by the big voter turnout.

Extremely heavy voting was reported in a number of cities, and in Little Rock, the crowd of prospective voters almost swamped the city's election machinery. One box remained open until 7:30 p. m. and the Arkansas Gazette said it received many complaints from citizens who said they did not try to vote because of long lines at polling places near the 6:30 closing hour.

The proposal to prohibit manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors in Arkansas, but permit legal possession of not more than one quart, was highly controversial.

It was sponsored by the United Drys, an organization of ministers and churchmen of the state, who used the same campaign tactics which have been successful in banning liquor sales in more than half of the state's 75 counties. They made a religious issue of the question and attacked liquor as a curse and cause of crime.

The wets asked for a vote "against the bootlegger" and conditions which prevailed during national prohibition, and pointed to about $7,000,000 of state revenue annually which would be lost under prohibition.

The school funds amendment was sponsored by the Arkansas Education association and endorsed by the state board of education and various parents and teachers group.

Alarmed by the possible impact in state finances, the county judges association, the Arkansas Municipal league, many city councils and numerous other organizations came out openly in opposition to the plan.

The stock law, sponsored by business and professional women's clubs, drew opposition from rural area and an organization was formed to oppose it.

Opponents charged it would ruin the small cattle grower and that it was favored by city residents. The late reporting heavy city vote swung the majority in favor of the act.

The four-year term proposal almost was overlooked in the heat of other campaigns, but it took the worst mauling at the polls of any of the four.

With Speck, the Frenchman's Bayou farmer and war veteran and former Democrat, as their standard bearer, the Republicans made their boldest state bid in years. But despite Speck's sharp digs at McMath and President Truman on current issues in a vigorous, and wide campaign, the result was the usual in heavily Democratic Arkansas.

Speck still had a long way to go to equal the best vote for a Republican candidate, the 30,442 for Barley Stump, who opposed Ben Laney in 1944.

RESINOL OINTMENT

Taft Easy Winner in Ohio

Columbus O., Nov. 8 — (AP) — U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft, who fought the greatest Democratic labor coalition in Ohio history, was reelected yesterday.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, a Democrat who risked his party's advantage by expressing admiration for the Republican senator, also won a third term.

Republicans won six of Ohio's congressional seats and led in contests for eight others. The Democrats captured two seats and led in even races.

Republicans were also making a strong bid for control of the state legislature, now dominated by the Democrats.

The long, bitter battle for the U. S. senatorship came to a definite end at 2:15 a. m. today when Joseph T. Ferguson, the Democratic candidate, gave up.

Ferguson, who boasted throughout the campaign that "I'll beat Taft by 250,000 votes," was trailing by 205,281 in the Associated Press tabulation as he wired congratulations to the Republican senator.

It appeared likely that Taft's majority would exceed 250,000. Tabulation of 7,300 of Ohio's 10,386 polling places gave:

Taft 1,075,529; Ferguson 826,186. Taft predicted a 250,000 margin for himself at midnight then went home.

It was a bitter pill for the CIO and the AFL which went all-out to defeat the co-author of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Jacob Clayman, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio CIO, commented:

"The road to social and economic justice is a long and hard one. Today apparently we were delayed. Tomorrow we will start on our way again."

The pill was bitter particularly because Taft piled up his wide margin principally industrial counties.

Taft carried Montgomery county (Dayton), a hotbed of unionism and the CIO Auto and Electrical Workers unions. And, he led in six other of Ohio's eight largest counties.

Democrats

colleague, Senator Eugene Millikin of Colorado. Taft heads the party's senate policy committee and Millikin is chairman of the conference of all GOP senators.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York rode the tide into a third term. Other New York results followed forecasts with Senator Herbert H. Lehman (D-Lib) winning reelection and Vincent Impellitteri, an independent, beating his Democratic and Republican opponents for Mayor of New York City.

Republican candidates upset Democratic Governors Chester Bowles of Connecticut, a "fair deal" supporter, and William Preston Lane, Jr., of Maryland. Republicans also were leading incumbent Democratic governors in Colorado, Michigan and New Mexico.

Guy G. Gabrielson, the Republican national chairman, hailed the GOP victories as a sign that the voters are "opposed to appeasement of communism — whether at home or abroad" and are "opposed to socialism in free America."

William M. Boyle, Jr., the Democratic national chairman, confined his comments to predictions that his party would retain a majority in the senate and "definitely" would control the new house.

The results paralleled those of every off-year election since 1934, when Democrats riding the crest of the early new deal years bolstered their strength in congress.

In each non-presidential year since then, the Republicans have made gains. Four years ago they took over control of congress. But they have been unable to translate any of those gains into a presidential victory two years later.

The results generally appeared to add up to a setback for Mr. Truman's foreign and domestic policies.

The defeat of Lucas in Illinois was regarded as a particular blow to the administration's handling of international affairs, although Democratic defections in a bitter sheriff's race in Chicago may have cut Lucas' strength in that customary stronghold.

Lucas had charged his victorious Republican opponent, former Rep. Everet Dirksen, with holding "isolationist" views.

Similarly, Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas, praised recently by President Truman for her support of his foreign policies, was trailing her Republican opponent, Rep. Richard M. Nixon, in the California senate race.

Nixon is a member of the house committee on un-American activities and a critic of alleged Communist infiltration into government.

Senator Home E. Capehart, Indiana Republican, who had criticized severely the administration's handling of international issues and the President's "fair deal" program, won in Indiana.

until photographs were examined. Fighter-bombers attacked three large Red truck convoys. The largest, estimated at 125 vehicles, was moving south toward Chongju, on the west coast 50 air miles south of Sakchu.

Allied ground troops deployed along a new 60-mile front in the northwest. The line ran from the Anju bridgehead over the Chongchun river northwest to Pakchon then eastward to Yongdong in north central Korea.

Huff Defeats Brown in Hot Springs

Hot Springs, Nov. 8 — (AP) — C. Floyd Huff apparently has won the circuit judgeship of the 10th district.

Returns from 65 of the 73 precincts in Garland and Montgomery counties gave him a lead of about 1,000 over incumbent Clyde H. Brown, friend of Governor McMath.

Huff had 6,009 to 4,489 for Brown and 294 for John D. Hoskins. Brown was defeated for renomination in the August Democratic primary by the late Curtis Ridgway. The death of Ridgway paved the way for Brown to try a second time to retain his job, but without the open support of McMath that he had in the primaries.

The judgeship was the chief contest in the Spa, where politics often become heated. Huff supported the McMath-led GI organization in 1946 that ousted the Leo P. McLaughlin organization from political control here. McMath was elected prosecutor.

Later, when McLaughlin was indicted on charges growing out of his administration as mayor, it was Huff who defended him. McLaughlin never was convicted.

For circuit judge: Smith 7,309 and Harry T. Woodridge of Pine Bluff 3,165.

For prosecuting attorney: Mullis 6,914 and Carlton Currie of Pine Bluff 3,623.

Smith is presently prosecutor. He seeks the post vacated by the death of Judge T. G. Parham of Pine Bluff. Mullis formerly was an attorney for the state tax commission.

At the close of the business session a delicious dessert plate and Coffee were served by the hostess.

DOROTHY DIX

Doting Mother

Dear Miss Dix: My trouble is a too doting mother. I am 21 years old, yet she holds me by the hand as if I were a child of three. Never lets me out of her sight if she can help it. If I suggest going any place she says: "Wait, I'll go too." If I have a date, which is seldom on account of her, I either have to sit at home, or tell her every word that is said. She listens in on every phone call. If I get a letter she reads it. My girl friends have dropped me because mother has to go everywhere we go. Older persons say how sweet we look together, but I'd feel sweeter if she weren't always along. Can you think of any remedy for this possessive mother love? I can't stand much more of it.

A PERSECUTED GIRL
Answer: The real remedy for your situation is to leave home. That is the only way by which you can keep your mother from ruining your life, because if you stay with her she will alienate you from your friends, drive all men away from you and you will end up by becoming one of those desiccated, colorless old maids who have no personality or existence of their own.

own. They are just mother's shadow.

Can Be Blessing or Curse
Mother love can be the greatest blessing in the world, or it can be the greatest curse. A mother can love her child unselfishly so that she puts the child's good always before her own. She can fit the child for life by strengthening it so that it can stand on its own feet and by fostering a spirit of independence in it. She can love her child so much that she will sacrifice to it and send it away from her when it is for the child's good, even though it tears her heart out to part with it. That is the kind of mother love that is the greatest good fortune that any child can have.

But there is the possessive mother love that seeks only its own gratification at whatever cost to the child. Because it wants to be all in all to the child it babies it and makes it a weakling; it cuts the child off from all association with others; it deprives it of all freedom and makes it dependent, and ruthlessly stands between it and the natural desires of youth, for such mothers are never willing for their children to leave them, or to marry. No greater misfortune than to have a possessive mother can befall any child.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a young business woman. For the last six years I have been the private secretary to one of the finest men I have ever known. He is a gentleman in every sense of the word. My employer is married and has five children. Unfortunately his wife is so insanely jealous that she makes life miserable for him, although she has absolutely no reason whatsoever to do so. Lately I have learned that she is jealous of me for no cause whatever. It makes her furious to see her husband dictating to me. He used to close the door to his private office when giving dictation, but now the door is kept wide open. I have thought of resigning, but I decided that probably would be admitting that she has reason to be jealous. Also I cannot afford to give up my position. How can I cope with this unpleasant situation?

Answer: You can't. You can no more reason with a jealous person than you can with an insane one, and the fact that you and the man are both entirely innocent of any wrongdoing cuts no figure in the case.

Jealousy feeds on its own imaginations and suspicions. It manufactures its own evidence and can see what it wants to see. Against this distorted mind neither innocence nor arguments can prevail.

So, for your own sake, look about and see if you cannot find another position, because there is no trick so mean and low that a jealous woman will not play it. Before you know it she will begin putting her jealous fancies into words and weeping out her suspicions on you on the breasts of her intimate friends. Then your character will be besmirched forever.

Dear Miss Dix: Do you think a philanthropist ever changes? I am engaged to a man who is a born phil-

Farm Council Would Sever Districts

Little Rock, Nov. 8 — (AP) — The agricultural council of Arkansas—representing East Arkansas cotton interests — would eliminate the present Western Arkansas fourth district in the impending reduction of Arkansas congressional districts from seven to six.

H. R. Adams of West Memphis, representing the agricultural council, has presented the plan to the anderer. He says he can't help flinching, but that after we are married he will never go anywhere without me and that will keep him fair to me. I am deeply in love with this man, but I am sure he will make me very unhappy. He doesn't know what loyalty is. How can I break away from this man who isn't fit to look at any decent woman?

MISS X.Y.Z.
Answer: If you haven't the will power to do so yourself, get some kind friend to have you locked in a padded cell until your fit of madness is over. For, believe me, there is no way of breaking a philanderer from philandering. And there is no woman more miserable than the one who is married to a man she can't trust outside of her sight and who keeps her heart torn to tatters by jealousy. Mediators Try to Stave Off Strike

New York, Nov. 8 — (UP) — With a threatened strike in the telephone industry only hours away, federal mediators redoubled their efforts today to make peace between the Western Electric Co. and the Communications Workers of America (CIO).

Union leaders said they were Arkansas legislative council, which is doing the preliminary work for the 1951 legislature in the redistricting matter.

Counties in the present fourth district would be allotted among other districts, and there'd be a general reshuffling. There'd also be a renumbering, of course, so there'd still be a fourth district but no seventh.

Adams said the council plan takes into the consideration the seniority attained by most of the Arkansas delegation on congressional committees.

Rep. Boyd Tackett, Nashville, the fourth district representative, is the delegation's junior member. He was first elected in 1934.

The reduction in districts — and representatives — is going to be necessary because of Arkansas' 1-year loss in population — the factor on which representation is based.

set to call out 50,000 textile workers in a local time) and other lines across major changes throughout the country. Joseph A. Burt, CIO general secretary, said Western Electric, facturing arm of the Telephone and Telegraph Co., offered only "inadequate" proposals. Unless the company changed, he said, there was a "real chance" the strike was averted.
